Sheep Herder | Livestock Care & Farm Operations

Scotland, UK Phone: available on request Email: available on request

Professional Profile

Highly competent and dependable Scottish sheep herder with 10 years of hands-on responsibility for daily flock welfare, grazing management and farm operations. Raised in a shepherding family, Ralph combines practical stockmanship, calm judgement and disciplined record-keeping with a professional, safety-conscious approach to working independently in demanding rural conditions.

Professional Experience

Sheep Herder & Farm Operations Assistant

Family Sheep Farm — Scotland | 2016–Present

- Provide daily care for a substantial sheep flock, including feeding, watering, health observation, movement and secure housing.
- Monitor animal condition and behaviour; identify signs of illness, injury, lambing complications or welfare concerns and escalate appropriately.
- Assist with lambing, tagging, weighing, handling, foot care, dosing and routine flock-health activities under established farm protocols.
- Plan and carry out pasture rotations, move stock safely, inspect fencing and maintain access to water and shelter.
- Keep accurate records for flock numbers, treatments, movements, births, losses, feed use and routine checks.
- Operate and perform basic maintenance on farm vehicles, handling equipment, gates, troughs, fencing and small machinery.
- Maintain clean, safe working areas and follow biosecurity, animal-welfare and health-and-safety procedures.
- Work reliably alone and as part of a family team, prioritising urgent welfare needs during adverse weather and peak seasonal periods.
